Arthur R. Naething, baker.

George W. Carry, dry goods.

George C. Rupprecht, salesman.

John H. Holbert, mineral water.

James S. Davidson, clerk.

New York, January 8.—The defense in the case of Harry K. Thaw, sprung the first great surprise of the second trial today by announcing that it had issued subpoenas for several of the expert witnesses who testified for the prosecution at the first hearing a year ago, and who, when District Attorney Jerome applied for a lunacy commission, made affidavit that in their opinion Thaw at the time of the inquiry was suffering from an incurable form of insanity.

These same doctors, however, had previously testified on the witness stand, in response to Mr. Jerome's famous hypothetical question, that they believed Thaw knew what he was about when he shot and killed Stanford White on Madison Square Roof Garden.

This move is intended by the defense as a block to the prosecution in putting these same doctors on the stand, and is taken by some as showing a determination that Thaw shall not be confronted even with the declaring of insanity, with a stay in an asylum for the criminal insane at Mattewan as the alternative. The alienists who were the mainstay of the prosecution at the first trial were Drs. William Mabon, Carlos Macdonald and Austin Flint. They were present at the former hearing from the very first day, and their absence this year has been commonly noted.

Plan Is Insanity.

The defense in the present trial is insanity at the time Stanford White was killed. In making out this case it will require delicate handling to show Thaw so mentally deranged at that time as not to know the nature or quality of his act, and at the same time show that he is now mentally sound. Drs. Mabon, Macdonald and Flint swore that, in their opinion, Thaw is a paranoiac whose case is incurable. It is undoubtedly the intention of Mr. Littleton, the new chief counsel for the defense, to interrogate and draw from these men the opinion that Thaw was also insane at the time of the homicide and then to limit all testimony as to the defendant's mental condition to the immediate period of the tragedy. If successful in this, the defense would force a trial of the case strictly on Thaw's mental condition in the summer of 1905.

This, in turn, would force District Attorney Jerome to apply for a lunacy commission, and Thaw's attorneys are confident of their ability to fight out his claim of present sanity before such a board.

Just what steps District Attorney Jerome will take to combat this unexpected move by the defense is not known. The work of jury building went forward today, but was slow.

The Morning Session.

When the Thaw case was resumed this morning there were three jurors in the box who had been sworn in, and unless something unforeseen happens, will remain there until the trial is ended. In addition, there were four others who have been tentatively accepted, but who may be peremptorily challenged at any time before they are actually sworn in. Hardly one of the talesmen examined during the two days the trial has been on denied that he had an opinion regarding the guilt or innocence of the young Pittsburgher, who is accused of the wilful murder of Stanford White.

Whether or not they are acceptable to the lawyers engaged in the case, depends entirely upon the strength of their opinion. Opinions were fixed, while others believed that they could go into the jury box, leaving whatever opinion they had outside. Only a few of the second 100 veniremen remain, and the third 100 of the original special venire reported this morning. It is probable that a second venire of 300 or 400 men will be issued by the court. One of the attorneys who has been connected with the case almost from the night of the shooting stated last night that he believed that it would require at least two weeks longer to secure a jury which would be perfectly satisfactory to both sides. The night sessions, which Justice Dowling has insisted upon, were men called to the time of the court, and although they are trying for the attorneys who are devoting all their energies to this most important stage of the trial.

The locomotive rolled over the bank on which the wrecking-car is seen working, the track having been relaid to the edge of the brink. Against the embankment is shown the Pullman which was nearest the engine. The "Radcliff," which was broken in two, is seen at the base of the fill, it is buried deep in the mud of the swamp. One Day Cut Off Between New York and Havana.

Jacksonville, Fla., January 8.—The Florida East Coast Railway will, on January 16th, open the new road from Miami to Knights Key, the last arch having been completed a few days ago.

Already steamers are plying between Knights Key and Key West and Havana, making the trip in six hours, and on after January 16, the magnificent tourist trains will run through to Knights Key. It is expected that the traveling time between New York and Havana will be shortened one day by the new route, known as the Seagoeing railroad.

Savannah, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—Upon the arrival here early this morning of the Central of Georgia railway train, from Atlanta, the conductor found a hat, coat and valise for which there was no owner among his passengers. He remembered that a man had boarded the train at Macon, and inquiry was started.

Soon the information reached the superintendent's office that the body of the man had been found three miles east of Gordon, about 2 o'clock this morning, by the section foreman. It was directed that it be brought to Savannah, and will arrive here tomorrow.

The body is said to have been that of a Dr. Hutton, of Hot Springs, Ark. It is supposed that he had left the coach to get a breath of fresh air on the platform, and had

TRACK WALKER
AT HIRAM WRECKRailroad Commission Is Investigating Trestle Collapse.Expert Track Walker, Employed by the Railroad Commission, Will Examine Track, Track Bed,
Trestle and Cross-ties
Before Making a Report.

The railroad commission of Georgia is having the wreck at Hiram, on the Southern railroad, investigated.

One of the expert track walkers in the employ of the commission has gone to the scene of the wreck and is making a minute examination of the track, the track bed, the trestle and the bolts and cross ties, upon which he is to report in a few days.

This track walker has been over many miles of railroad in Georgia in the past few months and is an expert in the subject which he is undertaking.

This inspection is on the Chattanooga branch of the Southern, which had already been decided upon by the commission to be the next one to be inspected.

Had he gone over this line a day or two sooner perhaps the wreck might have been averted.

He reaches the spot before the track has been cleared and seeing the ponderous engine, the bent rails and the shattered trestle he is in a position to draw conclusions which will have considerable weight with the commission.

J. S. B. Thompson, assistant to the president of the Southern, was among the morning callers at the office of the commission yesterday. Just what the commission will do in regard to the report of this track walking expert is purely a matter of conjecture.

Clearing the Track of Wreckage.

There were no additional names to the list of the dead yesterday, and all the victims of the wreck of Tuesday afternoon, near Hiram, Ga., were reported at an early hour this morning to be resting well and on the road to recovery.

It developed during the day that the three most seriously injured passengers were Robert Griswold, of Astabula, Ohio; Miss Florence Studebaker, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Emma Hoover, of Columbus, Ohio, but it is stated that Miss Studebaker and Mrs. Hoover are improving rapidly, and there has been a change for the better in the condition of Robert Griswold.

One of the arrivals in the city during the morning was D. J. Collier, whose wife was painfully injured in the collapse of the Coppermine trestle. Mr. Collier was in charge of the tourist train, but was not on that section, having gone on to Jacksonville as a passenger on section No. 1.

Resumed Trip to Cuba.

He said that arrangements had been made to resume the trip to Cuba, which was interrupted by the smash-up, on Friday morning, and that practically all the members of the party had reconsidered their first determination to return to their homes, and would be passengers on the Friday morning train.

Atlanta resembled a large hospital, all the hotels and the hospitals being crowded with hobbling, bruised, and cut tourists who were glad they were alive to tell the tale.

The feeling of gladness was predominant. Nearly every passenger had some marvelous tale to tell of his escape from what seemed to be certain death, and all united in wondering how it happened that any one escaped.

Wrecking Crews at Work.

All through the day wrecking crews were at work at the scene of the collapse, clearing off the wreckage, replacing the ties and rebuilding the tracks. Some time today the wreckers will complete the work of making a temporary trestle, and then through trains will resume travel along this route. It is expected that this trestle will be ready about noon.

All yesterday the tracks of the Western and Atlantic were used by the Southern through trains.

The body of Engineer Edwards was carried yesterday afternoon to Abbeville, S. C., for funeral services and interment.

the condition of those injured in the Southern wreck near Dallas on Tuesday is in every instance most reassuring.

The wounds were dressed, fractured bones and dislocated joints were set and everything done to effect the comfort of the injured.

YOUNG LADY DIES SUDDENLY.

Estonton Young Lady Was Combining Her Hair When Sudden Death Came.

Estonton, Ga., January 8.—(Special).—Miss Georgia Jenkins died this morning very suddenly at the home of her brother, Judge W. F. Jenkins. She had been recently suffering from an attack of rheumatism, she was able to be up and attend to the ordinary duties of the home, and even this morning there were no unusual symptoms in her case until the hand of death was placed upon her. At the time of her death she was in the act of combing her hair. She leaves two brothers, of her immediate family, Judge W. F. Jenkins, of this place, and David A. Jenkins, of Griffin.

The burial will take place tomorrow at the cemetery here.

DIES FROM HER INJURIES.

Young Woman Accidentally Shot Herself on Christmas Day.

Oxford, Ga., January 8.—(Special).—The death of Mrs. Sin Die, the prominent Newnan county lady, who accidentally shot herself in the right shoulder with a twelve gauge shotgun on Christmas day, occurred at her home three miles north of here, at 9 o'clock as a result of blood poisoning due to her injury.

Mrs. Die had been married only a year, and was about 20 years of age. She is survived by her husband, a prosperous farmer, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Cope, of this county.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from Liberty church, Rev. Iby Henderson officiating.

Bank in Healthy Condition.

Jefferson, Ga., January 8.—(Special).—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Merchants and Farmers' bank was held yesterday.

Notwithstanding the stringency of money during the past few months, the bank was shown to be in very fine shape, and more than $2,000 was placed in the fund of undivided profits. W. C. Smith, vice president; A. C. Appleby, cashier.

President Ignorant of Order.

Washington, January 8.—President Roosevelt was asked today to defend a legislative order which requires that postal employees shall be at least 5 feet 4 inches tall. The request was made by Representative Overstreet of Indiana, chairman of the house committee on postoffices and postroads. The president was surprised to learn of the existence of such an order, and laughingly remarked that he could not undertake to defend it until he acquired information from the postmaster general. Representative Overstreet believes it will have little difficulty in having the order revoked, otherwise he said he would make an effort to have it applied to all government employees.

NO REPORT YET WORK WILL START SOON ON MEMORIAL ENTERPRISE

General Superintendent Hutchins in Charge—Southern Using W. & A. Tracks.

No official statement in regard to the cause of the wreck of the Southern train at Hiram on Tuesday was given out by the officials of the Southern railway yesterday.

At the office in the Candler building of Superintendent Robie, of this system, it was stated that General Superintendent H. E. Hutchins, of the Atlanta, with headquarters in Birmingham, had gone to Hiram to take personal charge of the work there and to ascertain the cause of the catastrophe, which has taken the life of three persons and may take more.

In railroad circles this horror was the chief topic of conversation, and the general consensus of opinion was that the heavy engine drawing the Chicago-Florida train, derailed, was too heavy for the track and trestle, that in rounding the reverse curve, which is something like the letter "S," the rail spread, allowing the baggage car to bump the ties, smash the wooden trestle across Copper Mine creek and throw aloft the coaches down the embankment.

The track was torn up all day despite the fact a wrecking crew arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, and set to work upon repairing it.

No trains passed along the Chattanooga division of the road on yesterday, and all were detained for through traffic by way of Western and Atlantic line.

The local business along this line for Power Springs, Dallas, Hiram and other immediate stations, went as far as the wreck and transferred to another train. Very little if any baggage is hauled on these transfer trains.

It will require some time to put the track and roadbed in condition, to say nothing of replacing the trestle. In view of the danger made apparent at this corner when the trestle is rebuilt it will doubtless be either of solid cement or concrete. The curve is said to be on a down grade, which will allow a train to "coast" along the line at a rate of 35 miles an hour while taking it.

The track bed is gashed and slashed until it will have to be filled in again in places before the construction can be relayed.

The other Florida trains are coming into Atlanta via the Western and Atlantic track, which will begin its winter tourist train and all the year around Chicago-Florida flyer on Sunday.

Dr. W. S. Kendrick, the president of the Atlanta School of Medicine, who is opposed to the bedside teaching of students and who insisted that college should have equal representation with the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons, asked about the action of the hospital trustees in leaving him out of the medical board, said:

"I do not care to make any remarks in regard to the action of the trustees further than to say that it was no surprise to me that it was not done. I am in the hospital, and the public and the name of the city suffers from existing conditions at the hospital."

G. B. POWELL IS INDICTED.

Is Charged with Confederating to Destroy Personal Property.

Hopkinsville, Ky., January 8.—The grand jury today returned an indictment against G. B. Powell, of Fulton county, charging him with confederating with others to destroy and destroying real and personal property. Powell was one of the "day riders" who waited upon the tobacco men in November and was one of the party from which the present grand jury was made up. He sat with the other jurors, but when twelve names were drawn from the whole panel, his name was left in the hat.

New York, January 8.—Isaac Kushnoff, aged 17, is under arrest charged with stealing $300 from the Bank of North America last September. Columbia, S. C., January 8.—(Special).—William Herbe, colored, a trusted employee of a cannery concern, committed suicide today by shooting himself. This note was found in his pocket: "Please send my body to mother to Newberry."

Shanley in Bankruptcy.

Columbia, Ga., January 8.—(Special).—J. S. Shanley, a merchant and farmer of Springville, Randolph county, Ga., has filed a petition in bankruptcy here with assets of $5,428 and liabilities of $27.

Work on the new building for the Wesley Memorial church, to be located at the corner of Ivy street and Auburn avenue, will be under way in a short while. This announcement from the building committee will be received with interest throughout the state. Since the inspiring and enthusiastic meeting held in Atlanta on June 10, 1907, where more than $200,000 was subscribed to this movement, which was followed later by the generous subscriptions at several camp meetings and at churches in other cities where this cause was presented, the public has been keenly interested in the progress of the plans for the building. As this church is to be the pioneer of Methodist institutional work in southern cities, and as it represents the liberality and sacrifice of the Methodists and their friends, thoroughness in preparing for building has not been sacrificed to haste.

The plans for the building will be in the hands of a committee consisting of Asa G. Candler, chairman, George Winship, vice chairman, M. M. Davies, R. T. Dorsey, Sr., R. J. Guinn, J. G. Lester, H. E. McLeod, J. A. McCord, J. N. McEachern, W. D. Thompson, the resident bishop, the presiding elder of the Atlanta district and the pastor of Wesley Memorial church. The committee is composed of men loyal to the church, interested in its work and thoroughly prepared in judgment and experience to arrange for a church that will meet every requirement. The chairman of this committee, Asa G. Candler, announces that there will be no delay in carrying forward the work.

Will Cost a Large Sum.

The construction of the plant for the institutional work will require a large expenditure. Liberal responses have been made, over $200,000 having been subscribed, but more will be needed for constructing and equipping of a plant that will provide facilities for the work contemplated. The committee having the matter in charge will inaugurate a vigorous campaign of the state in behalf of these enterprises, and it is expected that liberal responses will be received from both the Georgia conferences.

The executive committee has published a booklet regarding this work for distribution to those interested, and they may be had by writing to headquarters of the executive committee in the Candler building.

HEART-BROKEN MOTHER

DIES WHEN SON DESERTS

New York, January 8.—The absence of her youngest son, John, added another note of pathos to the funeral yesterday of Mrs. Mary E. Sweeney, who died the other day of a broken heart. John was the youngest of the family and his mother's pet. A year and a half ago, after his father's death, he disappeared from home, and it was only after months of searching that the mother found that he had enlisted in the navy. Through the navy department she then discovered that her boy was ill in the naval hospital in San Francisco. Mrs. Sweeney wanted him home for Christmas and obtained his release from the navy, which she sent to her son. Christmas came and no word from him, but the mail carrier brought a letter. She looked at it and fainted. It was her own letter, stamped the one word "deserted."

From that moment she failed rapidly until she died, the doctors say, of a broken heart.

SOUTHERN REPUBLICANS

LOOKING FOR BAND WAGON

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., January 8.—(Special).—Southern republicans, particularly federal office-holders, are looking with eager eyes toward Ohio and endeavoring to forecast its action in the present national campaign.

They pride themselves on knowing a band wagon when they see it and are carefully sizing up the procession.

According to Judson Lyons, republican national committeeman from Georgia, the delegation from the Empire state will wait to see the wagon that carries the Ohio contingent. If it is a Taft crowd they will shout for Taft.

The inference is that if Foraker can control the state the Georgia delegation will be for Foraker.

Frank H. Hitchcock, first assistant postmaster general, astute politician and political organizer, while considering the offer to take charge of the Taft campaign in the south is sizing up the secretary of war's strength in that section, and to see how the land lies. He has communicated with the various southern committeemen to learn their views.

While Judson Lyons was in Washington today his position indicated above was made known.

Circles.

In the death of Miss Clara Vivian Marsh, which occurred Wednesday afternoon, at her home, 419 Luckie street, Atlanta loses not only a young woman of rare grace of character and sweetness of nature, but a musician of unusual promise. As a violinist she had won for herself an enviable reputation in the musical circles of the city, and with an unselfishness which was characteristic she was always ready to give freely of her splendid talent wherever it might be needed to bless, to cheer and to comfort.

Miss Marsh was only child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Marsh. She was born in Owasso, Mich., nineteen years ago, and removed with her parents to Atlanta when quite a small child. Her education was received in the schools of the entire class, and she graduated from the Girls' High school with the class of 1907. She was chosen president of her class by unanimous vote and filled that office in a manner which won for her the unqualified love and loyalty of the entire class.

Miss Marsh was taken ill early in the spring of 1907, and a change of climate being thought advisable, she was taken to Asheville, N. C., where she remained for six months, but without success in arresting the progress of the disease. Though unable to be present with her class at graduation exercises, she was awarded the diploma, and won it. Her illness cast a shadow over the entire class and the teachers, and during all the months of her falling health the solicitude of her friends has been tender and unremitting.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock, at the Universalist church, Peachtree and East grand street, of which church Miss Marsh was a devout and active member, having been for several years a teacher in the Sunday school and her services will be conducted by her pastor, Rev. E. D. Ellenwood. Interment will be at Oakland.

Compares the Viewpoint of Aristocrat and Democrat.

Chicago, January 8.—The standpoints from which the aristocrat and the democrat view society and its activities formed the theme of a speech delivered here tonight by William J. Bryan. Mr. Bryan was the chief guest at the Jackson day banquet at the Jefferson Club, a democratic organization. Prominent party men from several western states were present, the occasion being generally regarded as the formal opening of Mr. Bryan's campaign for the presidency at the Denver convention.

Other speakers were Adlai B. Stevenson, former vice president of the United States, of Bloomington, Ill.; United States Senator W. J. Stone, Missouri; John W. Kern, Indiana, and Edgar Lee Masters, Chicago.

The speakers generally confined themselves to issues of the day. Pleas for party harmony were frequent. Previous to the banquet most of the leaders present conferred with Mr. Bryan.

United States Senator Jefferson Davis, of Arkansas, was scheduled to speak, but was not present. Despite this hiatus in the program, the proceedings were so lengthy that it was past midnight before Mr. Bryan was called upon.

Mr. Bryan Speaks.

He said in part:

The labor question is considered from both standpoints; the aristocrat thinks only of the large employers; the democrat of the army of employees and of the general public which is inconvenienced by any disruption of friendly relations between employer and employee.

"And the question of imperialism in like manner presents the difference in viewpoint; the imperialist thinks more of the extension of commerce than of the preservation of the ideas of self-government, and he thinks only of the benefits that might come to the comparative few; the democrat knows that trade purchased at the cannon's mouth costs more than it is worth, and that the cost falls upon all the people, while the profits accrue to a few."

The Point of View.

"And so whatever question we take up we find that everything depends on the point of view from which we examine the question, and there is no better illustration of this than can be found in the financial stringency through which we are passing. The public leaders at once rush to the rescue of the banks after those banks had brought the stringency upon the country by their methods. The banks of the rest of the country were disappointed against in favor of the banks of New York City; and after the government had exhausted the loanable surplus in the treasury it borrowed money at 3 per cent in order that it might have money to loan to the banks for nothing; and the high financiers count it patriotism to loan out money at emergency rates the treasury money furnished them without interest."

"If the republican leaders had spent half as much time in trying to make depositors secure, as they have spent in trying to increase the profits of the banks, they would not have had any panic at all."

"The country is ripe for the application of democratic principles to government, and all that is necessary is for the democratic party to convince the people that it will be truly democratic if entrusted with power."

"Will the democratic party be democratic? Let it convince the public that it will, and we shall have a victory which will be fruitful in blessings to every part of the country and to every element of our population."

Mr. Stevenson spoke earlier in the evening.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Cost Nothing to Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and carries them out of the system.

"Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables."

Charcoal effectively cleans and improves the complexion. It whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood; and the beauty of that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug store, and although in some sense it is a preparation, yet believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Livers Exchanged

If the active liver of the cod-fish could be put into the place of the torpid liver of the consumptive it would probably do him a world of good. Next best thing is of Cod Liver Oil. Almost as good as a new liver. The great power of SCOTT'S EMULSION as a flesh-producer proves that much of the activity of the cod's liver is contained in every spoonful.

Scott's Emulsion

BRYAN SPEAKS WARREN LOTT HAS RESIGNED

Compares the Viewpoint of Aristocrat and Democrat.

Chicago, January 8.—The standpoints from which the aristocrat and the democrat view society and its activities formed the theme of a speech delivered here tonight by William J. Bryan. Mr. Bryan was the chief guest at the Jackson day banquet at the Jefferson Club, a democratic organization. Prominent party men from several western states were present, the occasion being generally regarded as the formal opening of Mr. Bryan's campaign for the presidency at the Denver convention.

Other speakers were Adlai B. Stevenson, former vice president of the United States, of Bloomington, Ill.; United States Senator W. J. Stone, Missouri; John W. Kern, Indiana, and Edgar Lee Masters, Chicago.

The speakers generally confined themselves to issues of the day. Pleas for party harmony were frequent. Previous to the banquet most of the leaders present conferred with Mr. Bryan.

United States Senator Jefferson Davis, of Arkansas, was scheduled to speak, but was not present. Despite this hiatus in the program, the proceedings were so lengthy that it was past midnight before Mr. Bryan was called upon.

Mr. Bryan Speaks.

He said in part:

"The question which involves a discussion of the relative sphere of the nation and the state brings out the difference in the point of view of the aristocrat and the democrat. The aristocrat wants to serve the state as far away from the people as possible; the democrat desires to bring the government as near the people as possible. ATLANTA LOSES GEN. EDGERLY

Brigadier General Has Been Ordered to the Dakotas.

WILL SUCCEED GEN. GREELY

Brigadier General Edgerly, who goes to Dakotas to take charge, will probably be succeeded in Atlanta by General J. M. K. Davis.

Brigadier General W. S. Edgerly, commander of the department of the Gulf, with headquarters in the Candler building, in Atlanta, has been relieved of duty at this assignment and ordered to St. Paul, Minn., to assume command of the department of the Dakotas.

Brigadier General J. M. K. Davis, who has been temporarily in command during the absence of General Edgerly abroad, will doubtless be permanently assigned to this department.

General Edgerly is now in Washington, where he has been made personally aware of his new assignment and will leave for that post in a few days. He will come by Atlanta, where he has made many friends, and pack up his household effects, secure his baggage, bid adieu to his comrades and proceed to the west.

He goes to succeed "temporarily" Brigadier General Adolphus W. Greely, who is to be retired on March 27, when his detail will be made permanent.

RECEIVER OF NEAL BANK TO RETURN UNPAID NOTES

James C. Schumperth will have a $2,000 note he deposited with the Neal bank for collection returned to him by the order of Judge Ellis, who heard the intervention in the case of Attorney General John C. Hart against the bank yesterday. It was alleged that the note was held by the receiver, the Central Bank and Trust Company, and had never been paid.

Judge Ellis further ordered that all similar notes held by the receiver be returned.

A. M. Robinson Company, also an intervenor in the bank case, was awarded the $813.93 worth of goods held by the Reid Dry Goods company, on which mortgage was foreclosed by the receiver of the Neal bank. The intervenor averred that these goods were delivered to the Reid company under contract, and with the knowledge that the Neal bank held a mortgage on the stock; also that the assignment was for the purpose of evading the Reid company to lift the mortgage.

The lodge appointed L. E. Tate and J. M. Williams as delegates to the district Masonic meeting, to be held at Gainesville on January 21.

GREENE AND GAYNOR AT FEDERAL PRISON

This Noted Prisoner, Who Arrived in Atlanta Yesterday, is in Wretched Health.

Two Noted Prisoners Could Have Served Their Sentence During Years They Have Been Fighting For Escape.

Benjamin D. Greene and John F. Gaynor, known throughout the world for the hard fight they made to keep out of the federal prison, after being charged and then convicted of embezzling $575,749.90 from the government, are in the federal prison, near Atlanta.

Yesterday morning they arrived to do a "four-year sentence," and begin this sentence, whereas if they had gone on once to prison after being convicted they would now be walking out free men.

It is doubtful if Gaynor ever leaves the prison alive, as he is in wretched health now and has been for some time.

The prison physicians made an examination of both, and the warden will decide what work they are to do, if any.

"All convicts work here," stated Warden Meyer, "if their physical condition will permit. I am awaiting the report of the physicians on these men."

Will Make No Exception.

From Macon to Atlanta, over the Southern, these men, known to newspaper readers as "Greene and Gaynor," rode in a Pullman car in charge of United States Marshal George P. White, Jailer C. W. Hubbard and Deputy Sheriff Dave Riley. This is the last bit of luxury these men, who have been sleeping in jail and dining upon meals served from the hotel, will know for some time, as Warden Meyer makes no exception in his treatment of all the men.

The Southern arrived in Atlanta late, and the train was stopped near the prison to allow the party to alight. At 8:30 o'clock they arrived at the big barred doors of the prison. They were admitted and were quickly taken in hand. Entering the prison they were on a par with the moonshiners, who arrived a little while before them from North Carolina.

These men, who have spent a fortune seeking to evade what they had at last to yield to, were taken into the private office of a deputy, searched and stripped.

They were photographed and measured by the Bertillon system. After this they were turned over to the bath room attendant and made to take a bath, after which they were taken to the prison barber, shaved and their hair cut.

Number Given Each.

Donned in the striped suit of the short-time prisoners they were led into the corridor, where their description was again taken and a number given each.

Hereafter they will be known only as numbers, and the words "Greene and Gaynor" will not be heard for four years, less time off for good behavior. Late in the evening these men, who have been rated as millionaires, and whose fight for liberty has become international, slept in felons' cells, and for the first time on a party with the other prisoners of the jail.

This morning, if their physical condition permits, they will be put to work. Their diet will be the prison fare, which is only to be had after going the "lock-step route." Their entertainment and privileges will be the same as all others. Mrs. Gaynor and J. F. Gaynor, Jr., arrived in Atlanta, and will spend the winter here.

Installation of Municipal Officers.

Rockmart, Ga., January 8.—(Special.) The following officers, to serve the city of Rockmart, were installed last night: T. E. McBryce, mayor; George P. Ferguson and E. R. Morgan having been elected to fill the expired terms of H. McRae and H. C. Allford; J. M. Roberts, treasurer; Heslop Hubbard, clerk; A. S. Williamson, marshal. W. Ferguson, W. A. Harris and W. H. Morgan, tax assessors. Rockmart has the youngest set of men as mayor and council of any town in Georgia.

GOV. SWANSON'S MESSAGE READ

The General Assembly of Virginia Was Organized on Yesterday.

Richmond, Va., January 8.—The general assembly of Virginia organized today by the election of Richard M. Byrd, speaker of the house, and Edward Echols, president pro tem. of the senate. Governor Swanson's message sets forth that the financial affairs of the state are most favorable, the surplus in the treasury being $726,571. Among the important recommendations is the prosecution of a continuous system of improvement of public roads. The governor believes the proper solution of the road problem is a just distribution of federal, state and local aid, and he urges the state to do its share immediately.

Governor Swanson recommends increased provision for the state's confederate veterans. "I recommend," says the governor, "that the pensions paid to the most disabled, dependent and deserving classes be increased, and that a larger appropriation for this purpose be made. I also recommend that the work of collecting and preserving the materials of our war history be continued."

The governor urges that an appropriation be made to erect a suitable monument on the battlefield of Gettysburg "to commemorate the great heroism of the Virginia troops."

He renews his recommendation for establishing a department of banking, and for legislation controlling the operation of state banks.

The message also recommends increased appropriations for the state militia, enlargement of the state board of health, and a liberal policy toward public education, especially the promotion of normal work.

ROBERT BERNER QUITS LAW FIRM

Smith, Berner, Smith & Hastings Law Firm Dissolves.

Hon. Robert L. Berner, for some time a member of the law firm of Smith, Berner, Smith and Hastings is no longer a member of that firm, it being stated at the office of the firm in the Peters building that the firm was reorganized on the first of the year in the name of Smith & Hastings.

Governor Smith, who was the senior member of the firm, dropped out of the law practice of the firm when he was inaugurated as chief executive of Georgia, though his name remained in the firm, with Colonel Berner as the head of the firm.

It is not known what is the cause of the dissolution, as Colonel Berner is out of the city, and Governor Smith is in Savannah.

All of the recent papers filed from this office have borne the firm signature of Smith & Hastings.

This firm was only recently reorganized, with Colonel Berner becoming a partner of Governor Smith during the early months of the governor's campaign.

His name was given second place and the firm title took the four-titled name of Smith, Berner, Smith & Hastings, with Jack J. Hastings and Marion Smith, the son of the governor, as the junior partners.

This followed the dissolution of the law firm of Hoke Smith & H. C. Peoples.

Mr. Peoples, with Attorney Lee Jordan for a number of years in these offices, formed a partnership and later went into the firm of Tye, Peoples, Bryan & Jordan.

It is stated that Colonel Berner will locate in Macon, but will spend much of his time in Atlanta.

It is understood that the cases on the docket of the courts in the former name of the firm Smith, Berner, Smith & Hastings will be reassigned.

The new firm is composed of two bright young lawyers, and their friends predict rich success for them. It is with regret that the Atlanta bar will yield Colonel Berner to the Macon bar.

WANT AN INCREASE OF WAGES

Mechanics and Machinists Call on the Navy Department.

Washington, January 8.—A delegation of mechanics and machinists and pattern makers from the Washington and Norfolk navy yards, accompanied by James L. Gordon, of Brooklyn, the vice president of the Pattern Makers' Association, had an interview with Assistant Secretary Newberry at the navy department today, with a view to securing an increase of wages for these classes of employees over those provided in the wage scale approved by Mr. Newberry last week. At the conclusion of their interview the visitors declined to make any statement, but Mr. Newberry indicated that in the case of the machinists and pattern makers at the Washington yard the weight of evidence was against the reopening of the question, while at the Norfolk the case of the pattern makers warranted further investigation.

ROADS SEEKING A REVOCATION

Want Judge Speer to Change
Order in Saw Mill
Case.

Macon, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—The railway lines running the Southern Railway Association made an effort to secure a revocation of the order of last summer before Judge Speer, here, today, in which other sawmill men than those who are members of the Georgia association were allowed to benefit under the refunding propositions following the famous decision in the case of H. H. Tift and others against the Southern railway and other lines. The decision forced the roads to pay back large sums they had collected under an arrangement to increase the rate on lumber to Ohio points and the west 2 cents per hundred pounds. Attorney W. S. Brandis, of Nashville, represented the lumber dealers. Judge Speer's order last summer allowed other lumber dealers than the members of the Georgia association to reclaim funds. The fight here today was to revoke the order. After a hearing the case was taken under advisement. Large amounts of money will be involved.

$5,000 Locker Tax.

Tifton, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—At Monday's meeting of the city council of Tifton, on the first meeting of the new council for the present year, the city license on locker clubs was fixed at $5,000.

One of the first acts of the council of Tifton, when the city was incorporated, fifteen years ago, was to fix the retail whiskey license at $10,000, and since that time Tifton has steadily maintained her record as a prohibition town, having never allowed the sale of either or any kindred drinks which had a tendency to intoxicate.

ARMED POSSES HUNT BANDITS

Boys Murdered Bartender and Robbed the Cash
Register.

St. Louis, Mo., January 8.—Armed posses, under the direction of Sheriff Hoppel, are scouring St. Louis and St. Charles counties today for the two boys who, with their faces masked, killed Bartender August Boss in his saloon at Normandy Grove last night. They then forced customers into the ice box and robbed the cash register. Later they forced the customers in a saloon at Ferguson into the ice box and robbed the cash register. Their descriptions tally with those of two masked boys who killed Peter Dunn and robbed a saloon on the night of November 6.

If they are found a fight is anticipated, and Sheriff Hoppel has instructed his possesmen to use revolvers without hesitation.

S.S.S. FORTY YEARS SUCCESSFUL SERVICE

When a medicine has stood the test for a period of more than two generations and is then more popular than ever, there can be no doubt of its merit. This is the record of S. S. S. Its period of existence is marked by a long line of cures of blood and skin diseases of every character, and its value in the treatment of such troubles has become so well known that it is today the most extensively used blood medicine on the market. For Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases and all other troubles due to an impure or poisoned condition of the blood, S. S. S. has no equal. It counteracts and drives out the poisons, humors and germs, cleanses the system of all unhealthy matter, cures the disease permanently and restores strong, robust health. Where the blood is weak or anaemic, and unable to furnish the body with the nourishment and strength it needs, S. S. S. supplies it with the healthful properties and acts splendidly in toning up and reinvigorating the system. It goes down to the very bottom of all blood disorders, and in this way reaches inherited taints on which the ordinary blood medicines have no effect. Not only is S. S. S. certain in its results, but it is at the same time an absolutely safe remedy. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of known healing and curative value. It does not contain the slightest trace of mineral in any form to damage the delicate parts of the system, and may be used by children with the same good results and perfect safety as by older people. It is not an experiment to use S. S. S.; it's a remedy with a record and one that has proven its worth by its forty years of successful service. If you are in need of a blood purifier for any cause begin the use of S. S. S., write our physicians and they will send you a book concerning your trouble, and will give without charge any special medical advice that is required.

THE GOVERNOR AT SAVANNAH

Governor Smith Made Speech
on "Transportation" Yesterday Morning.

Savannah, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—
At the session this morning of the National League of Commission Merchants of the United States Governor Hoke Smith spoke upon the subject of "Transportation." He was introduced by Mayor Tiedeman.

The governor stated that commerce is entirely dependent upon the railway companies, and said:

"Not only has consolidation removed the benefits of competition, but the owners of many lines of railroads have for several years past been interested far more in speculative stock and bond values than in the development of their properties by giving a service worthy of a good return upon investments."

He said that the opportunity of making a reasonable profit upon the investments should be allowed, but the state should also regulate and supervise the conduct of those furnishing public highways, to the end that the public receive proper facilities for transportation at reasonable charges.

He continued:
"The right of the nation and of the states to stand between the railroad companies and the public, to regulate rates and pass upon questions involving proper facilities, has been fully recognized by the courts of this country."

Should Be Controlled.
"The railroad companies uncontrolled can absolutely control the property and the persons of the people of this country."

"Should they be permitted to do so?
"Governmental regulation and supervision is a necessity which must be apparent to all unprejudiced men, and the responsibility of working out a supervision and regulation just to the public and fair to the railroad companies is one of the most important duties ever placed upon public officials."

"The nation can regulate interstate commerce. The state can regulate intrastate commerce. The great transportation issues that reach the country, the nation must handle through its national or interstate commerce railroad commission. The issues pertaining to localities, the intrastate issues, will differ widely in different localities. It would be almost impossible for the national railroad commission to handle all these problems in the different states. Our law wisely leaves the intrastate question to the states themselves."

SOME HARD KNOCKS.
Woman Gets Rid of "Coffee Heart."

The injurious action of coffee on the heart of many persons is well known by physicians to be caused by caffein. This is the drug found by chemists in coffee and tea.

A woman suffered a long time with severe heart trouble and finally her doctor told her she must give up coffee, as that was the principal cause of the trouble. She writes:

"My heart was so weak it could not do its work properly. My husband would sometimes have to carry me from the table, and it would seem that I would never breathe again."

"The doctor told me that coffee was home some Postum and I quit coffee, and started new and had no head-helped me. The Dr. said the other day,

WILLIAMS BOWS TO DE ARMOND

It is Thought Their Differences
Have Blown Over.

INCIDENT DURING DEBATE

Friends of the Two Democrats
Think That They Will Not Allow Personal Encounter to Stand Between Them
Any Longer.

Washington, January 8.—In the presence of the entire house Representative Williams, of Mississippi, and Representative De Armond, of Missouri, whose physical encounter on the floor of the house just before the Christmas adjournment attracted general attention, today engaged in an exchange of amenities which was generally accepted as a public announcement of their respective intentions not to permit their personal differences to interfere with the courteous discharge of their public duties. The incident occurred in connection with an effort by Mr. Dalzell, of the committee on rules, to get the house to agree to a rule giving right of way to the bill authorizing the codification and amendment of the penal laws of the United States and limiting general debate to four hours.

There was some discussion of the proposition before either Mr. Williams or Mr.
De Armond was heard. Several democratic members expressed the opinion that the rule was a scheme to sidetrack other legislation. Mr. Dalzell, however, refuted this.

Minority Leader Williams came to the rescue and favored the rule, saying that congress ought to get rid of the report, as it embodied the result of the labor of the commission for ten years. He said the matter was wholly nonpartisan in every way.

To the surprise of every one Mr. Williams then yielded ten of his twenty minutes' time to Mr. De Armond, of Missouri, who politely bowed his acknowledgments. The two men constitute the minority of the committee on rules, and are necessarily thrown together in the committee's work, and other members of the house expressed satisfaction over their evident intentions to preserve the amenities in their official relations.

Mr. De Armond attacked the rule because, in his opinion, the bill, which is a very long one, would be used as a buffer for the entire session against other and more important legislation.

Mr. Williams was vigorously supported by Messrs. Shirley, of Kentucky; Watkins, of Louisiana; Houston, of Tennessee, and Macon, of Arkansas, all members of the committee on revision of the laws.

The rule was passed by an overwhelming majority, despite efforts by Mr. De Armond and seven adherents to secure the yeas and nays, and the house at once proceeded to the consideration and reading of the bill, which contains 184 pages.

FAMOUS SCOUT IS DEAD.

During the Civil War Ellis bore a charmed life.

Nashville, Tenn., January 8.—Captain Daniel Ellis, aged 79, the celebrated union scout of east Tennessee, is dead at his home near Elizabethtown, Tenn.
During the civil war he seemed to bear a charmed life, and though the confederacy set a price on his head he nevertheless succeeded in piloting thousands of east Tennesseans and western North Carolinians through the confederate lines to Kentucky, where they joined union regiments. After the war he wrote a book of his experiences which had a wide sale. He was a veteran of the Mexican war also.

$8,000,000 for Motor Cars.

New York, January 8.—Nearly $8,000,- 000 was spent in the United States during 1907 for motor cars, according to the estimate made by the association of licensed automobile manufacturers. The association has decided to hold its next show in Madison Square Garden in January instead of November as heretofore.

and intrastate commerce can be supervised and regulated by state railroad commissions."

Character of Commissioners.

He stated that the men who compose the national and the state railroad commissions should be men of high character and great ability, and said:
"I believe in magnifying the position of railroad commissioner whether state or national."

"The duty of the railroad commission should be to see that justice is done to the people who otherwise would have no protection for person or property, and at the same time see that no injustice is done to the railroad companies."

"There should be no friction between the national railroad commission and the state railroad commissions. They can work in perfect harmony. There should be no friction between the courts and the railroad commissions. The authority of the railroad commissions over questions of fact should be final. The courts should only be permitted to inquire into questions of law where the work of the railroad commission is concerned."

"The railroad officials should learn that they must respect the authority of railroad commissioners and work in harmony with them. Those owning stock in railroad companies will soon cease to fear the action of railroad commissions, for their authority to check improper issues of stocks and bonds by selfish railroad officials will add to the security of the properties far more than the regulation of rates will damage them."

Governor Smith then discussed the improvements of our waterways, and urged a comprehensive scheme of water transportation by the national government.

Cordially Welcomed.

The features of the governor's stay were his reception at the train by a civic committee and the Savannah Cadets; his address before the convention, a reception tendered him at the city hall this afternoon followed by supper at Thunderbolt; his visit to the Savannah Volunteer Guards' armory; and his address to the corps there, and his escort to the train.

GRIP

Thousands Are Prostrated
Mills, Factories, Railroads, Stores and Nearly All Industries Are Crippled.

Thousands of people in this city suffering with colds are about today. Tomorrow they may be prostrated with Grip or Pneumonia.
Grip is spreading. Whole families are suffering. Many business places are crippled through sickness of employees. The disease is not necessarily dangerous with proper care and the right remedies. It is almost suicide to depend on quinine and whisky or home decorations. Don't trifle with a cold. Either take my Cold or Grip Cure or call in a competent physician. I can't say what your doctor will do for you, but I do know that my Cold and Grip Cure will speedily break up all forms of colds and grip. It checks discharges of the Nose and Eyes, stops sneezing, promptly relieves the Throat and Lungs, allays inflammation and Fever, and tones up the system.
It cures Headaches and Dizziness accompanying the symptoms of Grip, produces sleep and restores strength to the body. It is invaluable in all forms of Influenza or obstructive colds.—MUNY.

NO LONGER MUM IS SUGAR TRUST

A Policy of Publicity Has Been Decided On by Directors.

New York, January 8.—Publicity in the affairs of the American Sugar Refining Company will be the policy favored by W. B. Thomas, acting president of that company, according to an announcement which he made at the annual meeting of the stockholders, held in Jersey City today. On that point there have been several contests by the stockholders.
Mr. Thomas presided at the annual meeting today. He said that the policy of the late President Havemeyer was that all the financial information required by law should be made public, but that it was for the stockholders to decide whether any more should be done.
Mr. Havemeyer believed that the value of assets was a matter of opinion and difficult to determine. Mr. Thomas said he believed Mr. Havemeyer's policy had been fully justified in the past, that the policy of publicity is desirable in view of the conditions which corporations confront.

He added that he was heartily in favor of this policy and hoped to put it into effect. The directors were of the opinion, he said, that a substantial reserve should be maintained to meet the exigency of business. Whatever reserve there was belonged to the stockholders.
The policy of doing as large a business as possible at small profits and of maintaining the strength of the company's position would be followed by the directors unless otherwise instructed. The business in the past year had been satisfactory and the company is in strong financial condition, Mr. Thomas said.
He advocated increasing the number of directors from seven to nine.

Claus A. Spreckels moved, and the stockholders adopted a motion, that a full statement of the properties and subsidiary companies owned by the American Sugar Refining Company should be made.

Mr. Spreckels opposed, but the stockholders adopted, a motion to preserve the accumulated surplus as a working capital. John B. Parsons, of New York, and G. H. Frazier, of Philadelphia, were re-elected directors, and Horace Havemeyer was chosen director to succeed his father, the late president.

HINT OF OTHER INDICTMENTS.

Grand Jury Is Probing Other Cases
Similar to Heinze.

New York, January 8.—Through the arrest of August Heinze, the promoter of the former president of the Mercantile National bank, on a charge of overrec-tifying checks to the amount of $400,000, it has developed that a federal grand jury is still engaged in a searching investigation into other transactions of a similar nature in this city. While none of the federal officials will make any statement as to the possible results or extent to which the inquiry will go,
United States District Attorney Simpson said today that the work of the jury had not been completed. "It would be improper for me to reveal the evidence
I have lest I give away my case," said Mr. Simpson, "but I can say that the investigation is not over." To the straight questions as to whether there will be other arrests the district attorney refused to answer.

No Agreement With Note Holders.

London, January 8.—No arrangements has yet been made with the note holders of the Chicago Great Western Railway Company. The first formal meeting between them and A. B. Stickney, president of the company, will be held this afternoon, when Mr. Stickney will explain fully the situation and the note holders are expected to decide upon a course of action.

Muslin Underwear

A "Carnival in Cambrics"—one might say--or "A Revel in Reductions." The two combined, however, will give a really fairer idea of what is to happen in our Muslin Underwear sale this morning. We propose to have one of those regular good old sales where you, the customer, get such values that you'll be wanting right off to telephone your neighbor, or your cousin, or somebody, to come and see and buy.

The subject of the selling will be Women's Undermuslins.
They are the American--machine made--goods, the kind that nine-tenths of womankind wear. Good, well-cut, satisfactory garments, plain or trimmed, as you choose. Think of the stitching you save!
Think of the time, the wear and tear, the bother, and then think of the comfort of having plenty of fresh, piled-up, snowy things, all ready for your spring and summer wear.

Some of these are a bit soiled. What of it? They've been in the windows and handled a little. But, mercy me! what difference does it make when you have to tub them anyhow?

SECOND FLOOR

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company

A cheerful disposition for ten cents per week. Sweet breath, no headache, no dullness, no blues. All that—and more—in a box of Cascarets.

Cascarets supply a natural need. They simply do what some foods will do; what fruits will do, if used in abundance; what exercise does. They cause the bowel muscles to act. Their effect is as natural and gentle as the same effect from food.

If we lived out-doors, and ate whole wheat, green vegetables and fruits, we would never need Cascarets. But we don't exercise enough. We eat fine flour, much starch, and too little of fruit and green things. We live artificially, so we need an artificial laxative.

Cascarets give us, in concentrated form, one vital effect that we lack in rich food.

Some people need them more frequently than others. It depends on your food, your drink and your exercise. But we all need them sometimes.

The right way to take them is one Cascaret at a time. Take it just as soon as you need it. You can tell.

Don't wait till night. Carry a box always with you. Ward off the dullness, the headaches. Keep yourself always at your best.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The price is 50 cents, 25 cents and not reach Atlanta, while the low area from the region of the lakes has moved south bringing snow, but they did not touch this city.

Aside from just an uncomfortable breeze it was nice to be on the streets yesterday, and those who donned the light overcoats were in great shape. A good theater crowd was in view, making things appear pretty prosperous. Well, everybody is fond of that, especially those people who are possessed with the maniacal idea that they must stand on the corners and look.

He was a lone stranger from Wichita, a member of the great dry state of Kansas, where the barrooms run all the year around. He had a complimentary ticket to the theater in the town. This unfortunate had not heard the decision regarding visitors, so he ordered all kinds of stimulating beverages, among them being a Sazerac cocktail. The waiter, winked, and said: "Boss, I can't get you nothing but plain water."

"And why?" said the lone stranger. "Because, you see, day ain't gwine to let me."

"That reminds me," said the gentleman from Kansas, "the weather man said you had better lookout for: 'A Night frost this morning.'"

First Meeting of Water Commissioners Was Held Yesterday Afternoon.

The first meeting of the water board for 1908 was held yesterday afternoon, and Frank G. Lake was made president, and Hugh M. Dorsey vice president. No other matters of importance came up at the session.

It had been predicted that Mr. Lake and Mr. Dorsey would be elected to office, and in a few minutes after the meeting was called to order the hope proved to be true.

The water board as it now stands is as follows: Frank G. Lake, president, fourth ward; Hugh M. Dorsey, vice president, second ward; Thomas F. Stocks, first ward; W. E. Dunn, third ward; D. S. Walraven, fifth ward; D. N. McCullough, sixth ward; R. T. Pace, seventh ward; Will J. Davis, eighth ward; Mayor W. R. Joyner, and Alderman H. M. Beutell, chairman of the waterworks committee of the council.

The changes made on the board this year are as follows: W. S. Duncan, of the third ward, is succeeded by W. E. Dunn; Frank Rice, of the eighth ward, is succeeded by Will J. Davis, and Alderman W. A. Hancock, of the waterworks committee of the council, is succeeded by Alderman Beutell.

Death Sentence Read. Augusta, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—Arthur P. Glover, condemned murderer, stood up in court and received his second sentence with the same stolidity as the first. GOVERNOR GLENN CALLS SESSION

Extra Session in North Carolina on Railroad Matters.

TO PUT AGREEMENT IN FORCE

All of the Railroads but One Have Accepted Terms, and the Roads Will Pay $17,500 Towards Expense of Convening Legislature.

Raleigh, N. C., January 8.—Governor Glenn tonight, after a session of the council of state, issued his proclamation for a special session of the general assembly of North Carolina to begin on Tuesday, January 21. The proclamation states that the specific purpose of the extra session is to change, modify, straighten or repeal the railroad passenger rate of 2 1/2 cents a mile, passed at the last session of the legislature.

With the proclamation Governor Glenn issued a letter to the people of the state in which he sets out the specific act to be presented to the legislature, saying that the terms offered by him to the railroads have been accepted by all but one, and this road (the Atlantic Coast Line) accepts all the terms except an agreement for an intrastate rate, saying it has no power to do this, the governor adding, "But doubtless circumstances will regulate this rate as requested."

Increase Flat Rate. He states that the legislature will be asked to increase the 2 1/2 cents flat rate to 2 3/4 cents, with a charge of 15 cents extra for passengers who fail to buy tickets, and to repeal the present law and the penalties. If this is done the railroads agree to the flat 2 1/2-cent intrastate rate, and also to issue 2,000-mile books, intrastate, interchangeable with solvent roads, good for heads of firms and employees not exceeding five, at 2 cents a mile.

One thousand-mile books, intrastate, limited to one person at 2 cents a mile. Five hundred-mile books, intrastate, at 2 1/2 cents, good for heads of families and dependent members, names to be furnished.

All except 2,000-mile books apply to interstate travel in company's lines in Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama and on other roads, if they agree. All books are to be good for one year and to be redeemable.

Wants State to Adopt. Governor Glenn says that he considers these terms as just and equitable, and it is better for the state to accept them and to advance the rate from 2 1/2 cents to 2 3/4 cents, as intrastate mileage books at 2 cents are obtained. He states that it is agreed these rates are to prevail for one year, and if found objectionable, power is to be given the state corporation commission to modify them, subject to appeal, and that the railroads agree to pay $17,500 toward the expense of convening the legislature and for court proceedings.

Harris, H. R. Maxwell, John S. Leake, J. W. Knight, Albert Strickland, John B. Lewis and Paul F. Akia. The bank will operate a branch bank on the east side of Cartersville. This will be a very strong institution.

BREAKS A COLD IN A DAY

Or Cures any Cough that is Curable. Prescription of Noted Physician.

Mix one-half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine, with two ounces of glycerine and half a pint of good whiskey. Shake the mixture and use in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours. A renowned throat and lung specialist declares that the above formula is one of the very best remedies obtainable for an acute cold and that it will strengthen the lungs, relieve coughs and heal the bronchial tubes. Also, that it will cure any lung trouble not too far advanced. These ingredients are procurable of any good prescription druggist and easily made at home and it should take its place as one of the most valuable remedies in the family chest. Inquiry at one of the leading druggists elicited the information that Concentrated oil of pine is put up for dispensing only in half ounce vials, sealed in the screw top cases to protect it from heat and light. The oils sold in bulk and some patent medicines, sold as "Oil of Pine" and put out in wooden boxes, should be avoided because owing to their impurities they only produce nausea and are harmful.

HUGHEY INJURED BY LOCOMOTIVE

Was on Way to Depot to Go to the Scene of Wreck.

Max Hughey was struck by Southern railway engine No. 3795 at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, while crossing the tracks of the Southern railway in the Inman yards, and his right leg and left arm cut off. He also received severe contusions of the scalp, and bruises on the body. Late in the afternoon the house physician of the Atlanta hospital, Mr. Hughey had recovered from the shock and surgical operation, was in good spirits, and would undoubtedly recover from his injuries.

Mr. Hughey was visiting in Atlanta at 66 East avenue, and had started to the depot to take a train to Hiram, Ga., the scene of the Florida Limited wreck on Tuesday afternoon. While crossing the tracks in the Inman yards he failed to note the approach of a locomotive, and was run down before he could jump from the track. Mr. Hughey but recently returned from the Philippine islands, where he was connected with the United States war department. He is a cousin of Walter McElreath, the well-known Atlanta attorney, whose home he was visiting.

GIVEN VERDICT FOR $5,200.

Jury Decided in Favor of Mrs. Poe Against Bank.

Columbus, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—In the city court early tonight a jury gave Mrs. O. P. Poe a verdict for $5,200 against the Third National Bank of this city. A few months ago Mrs. Poe paid that amount to the bank, the money to be applied on her husband's indebtedness to the bank. She afterwards brought suit to recover the money, the point being made that the bank knew at the time it was her money and that the law forbids a creditor to accept money from a debtor's wife in payment of his indebtedness. In Mrs. Poe's petition to recover the money she averred that she made the payment to the bank to preserve her husband's credit there, but that credit was withdrawn after the money was paid.

TRAIN WRECKED BUT NONE HURT

One Coach Turned Over and the Other Stood on End.

Athens, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—The passenger train on the Gainesville Midland due here at 8 o'clock tonight turned over 7 miles from Athens, caused by the spreading of the rails. One coach was turned over and the other stood on end. There were twenty-five passengers, and not a scratch or bruise resulted from the accident. All were brought into the city in a box car. Their escape was miraculous.

Admiral Evans' Fleet Sighted. Pernambuco, Brazil, January 8.—The American battleship fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Evans, was sighted passing this port at noon on its way to Rio de Janeiro.

WHY NOT SAY WHICH?

Another campaign for governor and statehouse officers, including members of the railroad commission, is at hand—the election year is here—and yet no single step has been taken toward the settlement of those great questions upon which the last campaign was so largely based, namely:

The promised reduction of Georgia freight rates to the extent of more than $4,000,000, and—
The enactment of the far-famed port rates.

This observation is prompted by some interesting statements made in a letter to the editor of The Savannah Morning News, by Chairman S. G. McLendon, anent its editorial comment upon the announcement in telegraphic dispatches to that paper, to the effect that the commission had abandoned all intention of pressing those "reforms."

Respecting the first of these, Chairman McLendon writes The News: I quite agree with you in the opinion that no great surprise will be expressed. Serious-minded people in Georgia are entitled to know that the railroad commission of Georgia has never officially or unofficially, or in any other way decided to abandon that part of its program that includes the cutting of railroad rates to the extent of four million dollars, as it has never had any such program.

And yet the impression had gone abroad that there was entire harmony of view and purpose between the commission and the administration of which it is a product.

Are we to believe that the program of the administration is not the program of the commission?

Take, for example, this statement made by the governor at Douglasville, July 4, 1905, when he was a candidate:

I believe that with a proper governor and a railroad commission that is not bound to the roads, at least three million to five million dollars will be saved for the pockets of the plain people.

And again in the same speech: I declare to you that if I am elected governor I will bring these railroad rates down or you will hear from me in no uncertain terms. And yet again at Hogansville, August 5, 1905:

It is a matter of easy demonstration that the railroads in Georgia collect out of the people of Georgia for business done exclusively in Georgia $4,000,000 a year in excess of 5 per cent on the money invested in Georgia railroads. This being true, do not the railroads tax the people unjustly more than the entire taxes collected by the state from the people? Four million dollars, enough to run the affairs of state. Four million dollars unjustly placed as a tax upon the people of Georgia by the railroad companies. This does not cover amounts unjustly charged the people of the state by railroads outside the state for goods hauled into the state. The four million dollars I am discussing is annually taken from the people of Georgia for business inside of the state in excess of 5 per cent on the value of the property.

Is the railroad commission a product and a part of that administration from which once came these promises, or is it working in silent opposition to it?

If not the latter, wherein or why should programs so diametrically differ? As to port rates, that specific promise of the Macon platform, grown aged in the service and seemingly shelved, Chairman McLendon writes The News:

So far as port rates are concerned, that is to say, rates from Brunswick and Savannah to interior points in Georgia, and from interior points in Georgia to Brunswick and Savannah, this is a matter which has not yet been considered by the commission, and whenever it is all the people of Georgia will have notice and there will be no discrimination in favor of, and no discrimination against, any city or section of Georgia in whatever action may be taken by the railroad commission.

Eighteen months have passed since port rates were transferred from campaign promise to solemn platform pledge, another campaign and election are upon the people, and, yet, in Chairman McLendon's own words, the subject of port rates "has not yet been considered by the commission."

The sphinx might propound another riddle: How long does it take to carry out a platform pledge?

Have the people been robbed of these millions in excessive freight rates? If so, then, when is the robbery to stop?

Are the port rates to be enacted into rule and order of the commission? If they are, when is the order to come?

If there has been no such robbery, and there is to be no such sweeping reduction in rates as promised, if the port rates are not to be enacted, then let the people and the railroads both know it. What the public and the railroads both want to know is where they stand!

How can they know it, how can they know upon what to build, except by affirmation from that body in direct authority—the railroad commission?

In the editorial to which Chairman McLendon makes reference in the letter from which we quote, The Savannah News congratulates the commission upon its rumored abandonment of these two policies.

Are those congratulations based upon false hope, aroused but to be shattered, or may we yet look for a fulfillment of it in all its promise of restoration of a one-time confidence?

Why not say which?

THE IMPORTANCE OF SCHEDULE OBSERVANCE.

"We left Chattanooga about three hours late. . . . I had just pulled out my watch to see if Jim had made up any time."

This, from the statement of Conductor Y. R. Norris, in charge of the ill-fated Florida special, which went through Coppermine trestle near Dallas, sets forth anew an irrevocable lesson which long ago should have brought results.

True, the Coppermine trestle disaster, miraculous in its escapes from mangle and death, cannot, perhaps, be attributed wholly to the fact that the train was three hours late, but that such was a leading contributory cause cannot be questioned. Two equally heavy trains had shortly before passed over the same portion of doubly curved track, the same trestle.

Had this train been running on its schedule time, and the usual slackening of speed made upon approaching the double curve and trestle, instead of spurring, regardless of track conditions, to make up time, the reasonable probability is it would have passed safely over, as did the others, even if the new heavy engine was "too stiff" to make the "reverse curve." The effect of "stiffness" might have been overcome by slackened speed, but—

THE TRAIN WAS THREE HOURS LATE, and the engineer was no doubt endeavoring to regain lost time.

The deplorable accident in which President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern, lost his life, was due largely to the fact that both trains were running LATE. Instances from the record of wrecks might be given innumerable.

For years past The Constitution has called attention to the evil of impossible and unobserved schedules.

We have insisted that where schedules cannot be maintained, they be changed, lengthened if necessary, in the interests of public safety and convenience; or, as an alternative, that track and equipment conditions be so improved as to make advertised schedules possible.

The reply of one and all the railroads is that, while fully realizing the necessity for improvement, for double-tracking, for more sound equipment, conditions are such as to effectually prevent their placing even high-class obligations in exchange for the cash needed to prepare to meet the demands of increased travel and traffic.

However those business and financial conditions which have cut off particularly railroad investment may have come about; however greatly unfortunate may be railroad inability to negotiate bonds in the money market, the roads must still bear the responsibility for those disasters which inflict injury and sacrifice human life.

In the last few years the Southern railway has lost enough through wrecks by collision and derailment to have paid a snug portion of the expense of double-tracking its line between Atlanta and Washington. There are others which have suffered in proportion.

We would not, under any circumstances, advocate the lengthening of schedules where there is any reasonable possibility of maintaining them with some degree of regularity. The people of the south are entitled to equally good service as that given in the north, the east and the west, both in the matter of train equipment and good schedule time, and they ought to have it.

But the first consideration is the public safety. If track or other conditions do not warrant advertised high-speed schedules, let them be reduced to the point where safety to life and limb may be reasonably assured.

Whatever the difficulties of the problem confronting the railroads today, there should be no delay in the solution of that portion of it, at least, which involves the prevention of this sort of disaster.

It cannot be done as long as passenger trains are permitted to run THREE HOURS LATE!

Schedule time is one of the surest guarantees of safety!

Think that lilies loll an' lean,
That the river banks are green,
An' the world is all serene,

"Mighty Low."

"Are you 'holdin' your own' this

"Only about two gallons of it, sir," replied the major, "and it's going fast!"

Road Wants City Privileges.

Augusta, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—At the January meeting of city council the Atlanta and Carolina Construction Co., through attorneys, presented a petition to council for rights and privileges to lay tracks into and through the city of Augusta, and to erect terminals and other necessary structures here. The matter was referred to the railroad committee and the streets and drains committee of council to confer with representatives of the new road and report back to council.

CAPITOL GOSSIP

Tom Hardy, of Richmond county, convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment, will be recommended by the pardoning board.

Following his stay in the asylum the physicians last month pronounced him cured, and he is to be sent back to Richmond county, where he is to be sentenced again to be hanged.

His counsel, the judge and solicitor of the court which tried him have united in asking a commutation of sentence to life imprisonment, and this will be recommended by the board.

Today the prison commission will act upon the petition of Bud Thomas, of Muscogee county, who is under sentence to be hanged in Columbus on Friday, January 10. The commission is awaiting a letter from Solicitor General Price Gilbert, of this circuit, which tried Thomas, before acting upon his case.

No other petitions have been acted upon or specially set since.

Half Million Received.

State Treasurer R. E. Park received on yesterday $236,144.64 from the various tax collectors of the county. On Tuesday this office received $255,085.01 from these sources, bringing the revenue of the state up to a half million dollars for the two days. This money is needed by the state, in view of the fact that the pensioners of Georgia are due their first quarterly payments on March first.

Scott in Augusta.

Brigadier General A. J. Scott, adjutant general of the national guard of Georgia, is in Augusta, where he went to look after the battalion of national guard located in that city. This is his first visit there since the reorganization of the national guard on December 1, when the troops were taken from regimental and placed into battalion formation.

He is expected to return to Atlanta today.

Hudson at Griffin.

Commissioner of Agriculture T. G. Hudson spent yesterday at Griffin in attendance upon a meeting of the board of directors of the state experiment station at Experiment, near Griffin. This work is in charge of Director Mr. V. Calvin, and is proving of vast benefit to this department in Georgia. He will return to Atlanta today.

Pound Off for Athens.

State School Commissioner Jere M. Pound leaves today for Athens, where tonight he will meet the students of the $100,000 agricultural college on the subject of "Common Schools." Commissioner Pound has been in office just one week, and is becoming acquainted with the state educators, and becoming more popular every day. He will return to Atlanta on Friday.

Representative Butt.

Hon. William Butt, representative from Fannin county, was in the city yesterday on legal business in the interests of a client whom he represents before the prison commission.

Butt is one of the best known and most prominent lawyers in the northern section of the state. He has many friends in Atlanta who are glad to welcome him whenever occasion brings him.

Walsh Takes the Stand.

He Tells of His Early Career as a Banker.

Chicago, January 8.—John R. Walsh, on trial in the United States district court on a charge of misapplication of funds of the Chicago National bank, took the stand in his own behalf today. After recounting, in reply to question by John S. Miller, of his counsel, his early business career, Mr. Walsh told of the founding by him in 1884 of the bank in question. As he is president, he said, he purchased in 1897 and 1898 certain receivers' certificates of the Central and Chester railroad at 95. Prior to their purchase, he said, a careful inspection of the property was made by himself, F. M. Blount, then vice president of the bank, and others. The legal status of the road was also investigated by A. F. Hatch, attorney for the bank, the witness asserted.

The Seaboard Receivership.

(From The New York Times.)

It is contended that the money spent on the road (the Seaboard) should have been disbursed in dividends. The managers, it is alleged, have diverted funds from the paying of interests to extend and improve the property. And this is complained of as waste of resources and extravagance of administration. We are not sure what the facts are in this specific case, but we do know that this theory prevails in authoritative quarters. The intricate commerce commission has ruled that rates should not be maintained at a level enabling both the payment of dividends and the improvement of the railways. Net earnings should not be divided between dividends and betterments, but any surplus above payment of the interest should be devoted to the reduction of rates. In one aspect the Seaboard is an object lesson in railway finance, raising broad questions of financing by the issue of securities at an attractive discount to those of speculative temperament, and developing the growing enterprise out of its own resources, or dividing all earnings and financing all betterments by a charge to new capital account, with the final result that the capital account at last backs down of its own weight. The Seaboard management may be open to criticism on a number of points, but the decision regarding every railway in the United States.

Insurance Rebuilds Church.

(From Consular Reports.)

Congratulatory Van Dyne writes from Kingston, Jamaica, that a unique plan has been adopted to rebuild the Holy Trinity church of that place, which was destroyed by the earthquake January 14, 1907. Young men are to take out twenty-year endowment insurance policies aggregating $75,000 in favor of the church, the premiums to be paid by 200 members in weekly installments of 40 cents each.

Life Insurance Meeting Adjourned.

New York, January 8.—The meeting of directors of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance society was adjourned until February 18 by Judge Ward in the United States circuit court today so that all policy-holders may become familiar with the proposed changes in the administration of the company to be considered at this meeting. Judge Ward had previously enjoined the directors from convening before January 7, and today extended this injunction another month. The transfer of license held against policies from the debit to the credit side of the corporation's ledgers which is said to be necessary is among the things to be taken up by the directors.

Rockefeller Agrees to Settle.

Cleveland, O., January 8.—John D. Rockefeller has agreed to settle the suit against him by Mrs. Martha Condee for $25,000, a Chicago woman who owns the Saunders hotel building at 638 Superior avenue, northwest. Mrs. Condee, an heir of the late P. L. Johnson, sued Rockefeller, charging that the excavation for the big Rockefeller skyscraper had undermined the hotel building.

Mrs. Condee's attorney told Judge Schuyler that Mr. Rockefeller had agreed to settle. The case was passed to February 3.

Too Late.

(From The Philadelphia Ledger.)
"What have you to offer to offset these charges?" asked the court severely.
"Not a thing, judge," replied the prisoner, "not a thing, unless you can get my lawyer to divide. He seen me first."

EXPERTS IN FORESTRY WILL ATTEND MEETING

By Irma Dooly.

Of great interest to the south will be the mass meeting called by the Appalachian National Forest Association for next Thursday evening, December 16, when all the states of the central south will send delegates. The meeting marks the first expression of concentrated effort in the south in the direction of forest preservation, and marks a cooperative movement with those people of other sections alive to the necessity of the proposed Appalachian national park, to extend from New England through to the Gulf of Mexico.

The bill to come up in congress the latter part of the month has at its back organizations of men and women in every state through which the proposed park would extend, and as the people of the south have been the last to organize, their action must be direct and decisive. Ligon Johnson, president of the new association, is in Washington at present in the interest of the movement, while vice presidents of the association in each southern state are organizing their forces.

Mills Arrives Tuesday.
 At the meeting which will take place in the Grand opera house next Thursday there will be a number of well known speakers to contribute to the program. Among them Enos Mills, the well known government expert, who will spend three weeks in Georgia and Alabama, where he will lecture on various phases of the forestry subject.
 He will arrive in the city Tuesday, the 14th, and will remain until after the 16th. His lecture will deal with the forestry question from the broadest standpoint, and will prove both instructive and interesting. He is an able speaker, entirely absorbed by the subject to which he is devoting his life. He has lived in the forests for twenty years and knows them from a practical and scientific viewpoint. The government, through Mr. Mills, offers free literature pertaining to forestry, application to the department of agriculture being all that is necessary to obtain it.
 In this matter issued by the government is a "Primer of Forestry," by Gifford Pinchot, who stands at the head of the forestry movement in America. Another valuable contribution on forestry by M. Pinchot is called the "Use of the National Forests," in which he sets forth their necessity.
 For nearly a century forestry laws have prevailed in Germany and France, the preservation of the Black forest being entirely due to government protection. It was not until 1891 that congress authorized the president to establish forest reserves (now called national forests), and President Harrison created the first one—Yellowstone the same year.
 Since that time the necessity for better forestry laws and for national reserves has been felt in all sections of the country. The agricultural department has taken active and far-reaching efforts to promote interest in the matter, and here in the south there is a general and energetic movement expressing a need for the proposed Appalachian reserve.
 As the movement is one national in scope, the doings of the southern part of it will be watched with interest in other sections, and there should be a general cooperation in the direction of making the mass meeting in Atlanta one signally successful.

Those Acting.

Uniting in the arrangements for the mass meeting are the Appalachian National Forest Association, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. It was the last named organization that Georgia, when at their meeting in Tifton they had to discuss the subject of forestry. Enos Mills, representing the government; Professor Ackerman, of the University of Georgia, who spoke of the state's interest in forestry, and John G. Wainwright, who had of the first forestry club which he had organized, and which is in practical operation.
 Interest in the meeting was widespread; press notices about it were sought for and copied far and wide, and the movement was ready to cooperate with all their organized forces when invited by the Appalachian association to make Thursday's meeting a great success.

FORESTRY PRESERVATION ENDORSED BY CHAMBER

The board of directors of the Atlanta chamber of commerce yesterday held the first meeting of the year, and during the session the Appalachian forestry question was given a flattering endorsement, the action of the board being based upon a resolution jointly introduced by Messrs. Woodward, Pope and Paxton.

President Candler occupied the chair during the meeting.
 J. A. Finney, of Atlanta, secretary of the Appalachian National Forest Association, was presented to the board, and briefly but clearly presented the need of a forestry preservation. He urged the chamber of commerce to give its endorsement to a mass meeting to be held in Atlanta some time during the month of February, and made it quite plain that that gathering would be largely attended.

Resolutions Are Passed.
 Mr. Finney was followed by the resolution, which read:
 Whereas, The rapid destruction of the forests of the Appalachian region, not only threatens to cut off the supply of hardwood within a few years, but is certain to result in serious injury to agriculture, navigation and commerce, and the destruction of property which properly developed would be worth many millions to the people in this section, and will make difficult the development of our waterways and water powers, while it mars and disfigures the country by increasing the force of mountain torrents and causes floods in river valleys; and
 Whereas, The Appalachian National Forest Association, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Federation of Women's Clubs have called a mass meeting for Thursday, January 16, at Atlanta, to discuss the forestry question and to urge its preservation;
 Resolved, That we heartily endorse the movement on foot by these organizations. We pledge the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to send a delegation to the mass meeting which has been called for January 16 at the state capitol, and also to urge upon congress the passage of the bill.
 Resolved further, That we recommend to all commercial bodies in the Appalachian region that they send delegates to the Atlanta mass meeting and also send committees to Washington to urge the passage of the bill, which is expected to come up before the committee on agriculture the latter part of this month.
Ransom Made Representative.
 The national council of chambers of commerce, recently organized in Washington, in which organization Atlanta took a leading part, was brought to the attention of the board, and the action of Atlanta's representatives at that gathering was endorsed. L. A. Ransom was selected as Atlanta's representative on that national body.
 The canal question was brought before the board, and it was decided to make that event the feature of the annual dinner to be held within the next few weeks.
 Mr. Paxton introduced a resolution making all ex-presidents of the body ex-officio directors of the chamber for two years. But as it will require an amendment to the constitution to bring that about it will have to go before the full membership.

CLAIM CHECKS NOT DECIDED DENOUNCES MONEY PANIC

Terminal Company, Baggage and Cab Companies and Railroad Commission Agree That All Baggage Shall Be Received in Terminal Station.

It was agreed by the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company, the American Transfer and Baggage Company and the railroad commission of Georgia, with the Atlanta Terminal Company, that in future any and all baggage in Atlanta delivered at the terminal station is to be received there.

This is an appreciated concession over what has been the case heretofore. In regard to the claim checks there has been no decision, and after wrangling with the question until 7 o'clock last night the commission adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock, when the subject will be taken up in executive session and a decision rendered.

All day yesterday the commission heard the case. In the morning there was a full board present, consisting of Chairman McLendon, Vice Chairman Hill and Commissioners Callaway, Hill and Stevens.

The commission had appointed the day for the sole purpose of hearing arguments.

Attorneys Are Heard.

In the morning Attorney Rosser, representing the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company, was heard. In the afternoon Attorney A. H. Banker, representing the Beck & Gregg Hardware Company, the J. K. Orr Shoe Company and the F. E. Block Candy Company; Attorney R. T. Dorsey, representing the Atlanta Terminal Company; Attorney Arthur Heyman, representing the same company, and Attorney Wainwright, representing the American Transfer and Baggage Company, were heard.

The arguments were not concluded until after 6 o'clock, the commission continuing its session, on the motion of Commissioner Callaway, in an effort to get through in one day.

After going into executive session the commission took up the three sets of amended rules as proposed. It was agreed that all baggage should be received into the terminal station. This was one great concession gained. The terminal company proposed to receive all baggage into the terminal station and issue for each piece of baggage a receipt which the passenger must present to get his baggage. A few other details were proposed, too, but this was the salient feature.

The American Transfer and Baggage Company presented similar rules as to the receipt of baggage, but contended that the transfer company claim check should be sufficient. The rules as drafted by Commissioner Callaway were along similar lines, and contained "storage charges" as a basis of argument.

Claim Check System.

The American Transfer and Baggage Company stated that the claim check system as proposed would be as bad as the present system, by reason that the check given to the driver by the terminal company would have to be returned to the passenger before he could get his trunk, although it was in the station. He stated that the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company had indicated this by having a "cut off space" in the baggage room, which was claimed by them, exclusively, and baggage was kept in this reservation until the passenger arrived, when the terminal check was not needed, as the trunk had never been presented to the terminal company for reception.

It was further argued that in the check claim checks were issued by the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company would have an advantage, in that it had an office in the terminal station where these checks could be had. He said that no other transfer company had such an office, and that it would be as bad then as at present.

Attorney Hopkins offered an amendment so that the terminal company may sue its terminal checks in bulk, and that the passenger be given his terminal check at his home. This, the counsel for the terminal company objected to. With these facts before them the commission went into executive session with the result stated.

 Elaborate Preparations Being Made at Rio Janeiro.

Concord, N. H., January 8.—Opposition to Secretary William H. Taft as a presidential candidate was embodied in a statement issued today by the executive committee of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor. The statement says in part:
 "We, the executive committee of the New Hampshire branch of the American Federation of Labor, in sentiment and sympathy with union committees of all political parties in this country, hereby declare ourselves unalterably opposed to the nomination of William H. Taft, secretary of war, for the presidency; that we recognize in him, through his public utterances and judicial decisions and opinions, the arch enemy of organized labor; that he is the instrument and exponent of capitalist power; that the writ of injunction he upholds with other iniquitous measures never was intended and never should be applied to deprive honest industry of its personal rights; that we object to his methods of campaigning as any one man, however exalted and influential may be his master, or widespread his own support and endeavor; and that we are determined and irrevocably opposed to his candidacy."

Paris, January 8.—A Paris paper today prints an interview emanating, it says, from an "authorized Japanese source" with the object of showing that Japan is so absorbed with the mainland of Asia that war with America is impossible.
 "The entire attention of Japan," says the interview, "is occupied with China and Korea, where developments are occurring which are giving Tokio the greatest concern. China has just dismissed a number of Japanese instructors who have been replaced with Germans. The Manchurian situation is full of complications. China demands the immediate entire application of the treaty of Portsmouth, which would deprive Japan of the possibility of exercising an efficacious influence in Manchuria."
 Japan opposes the extension of the Peking railroad to Fookmen by way of Hsinmintun on the ground that the Peking agreement of 1905 stipulated that China should not construct a parallel line injurious to Japanese interests. The Japanese occupation of Korea is also meeting with much opposition, and for this and other reasons, Japan is actively pushing the work of increasing her armaments. The message of the emperor of Japan clearly indicates that the country is looking to the Far East, and not in the direction of America.

Rio Janeiro, January 8.—The program for the entertainment of the officers of the American battleship fleet, under Rear Admiral Evans has been practically completed. The fleet is expected January 11 and will remain here ten days.
 January 11 and 12 the officers of the fleet will visit the ministry of marine and the naval clubs. On the 13th they will be given a breakfast by the minister of marine, Admiral Alencar, at the hotel on the summit of Mount Corcovado. The 14th the American ambassador, Irving B. Dudley, will give a banquet at Petropolis, the suburb of this city, where the diplomats reside. On the 15th the visiting naval officers will be entertained at breakfast by the president of the republic, Dr. Pimenta. A reception and fete at the crystal palace at Petropolis will be held on the 16th, and on the 18th there will be a big banquet in honor of the visitors by the foreign minister, Baron De Rio Branco, in the Monroe pavilion.
 The date for an entertainment by the Naval Club has not yet been fixed, nor has the day for a reception on board one of the American battleships by Ambassador Dudley.

NO ARREST IN EIGHT DAYS.

No Session of American Police Court Held in That Time.

Americus, Ga., January 8.—(Special).—Since the advent of state prohibition eight days ago the Americus police barracks have been without an occupant. Not an arrest has been made in eight days nor a single session of police court held in that time. The police force has recently been reduced 33 per cent, as the number of policemen heretofore employed are no longer required.

Americus is taking prohibition in earnest and the law will be rigidly enforced. Prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists alike are thoroughly satisfied with existing conditions and blind tigers cannot thrive here, neither will Americus have locker clubs.

LONGINO-VICKERS.

Longino, on East Main street.

As the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march were rendered by Mrs. James H. Longino, little Misses Kate Davenport and Helen Parker proceeded the bride party to the arch in the spacious parlors. Then came the bridegroom, followed by the bride, who leaned on the arm of her sister, Miss Cecile Longino, maid of honor. Then followed Mr. Hill Redwine with Miss Bernice Vickers, and they stood with the bride and groom beneath the bridal arch of white bells and smiles while the Rev. Mr. Charles Merrell Lippam, of Atlanta, pronounced the ceremony that made them husband and wife. During the ceremony "To Spring," by Orleg, was played by Mrs. James H. Longino.

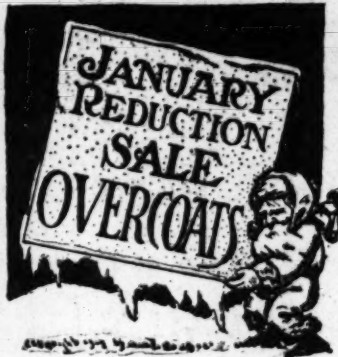

The home was brilliantly illuminated and decorated. After the ceremony, elaborate refreshments were served to a large number of guests.

IN DELIRIOUS CONDITION

MAN ATTACKS OFFICERS

In the delirium of insanity, D. D. Rice, aged 58 years, living with his family at 197 Foundry street, became possessed of the hallucination that he was being detained against his will from his home and the city he lived in.

The unfortunate man tore his clothing into threads, threw furniture about, and terrified the members of the family who hastily telephoned for Call Officers Williams and Loyd.

Arriving at the home the officers confronted an infuriated madman, possessed for the time being of superhuman strength. He seized a chair as the officers advanced and brandished it menacingly over his head. It was only by tactful assurances that the officers put him temporarily off his guard and closed with him, and then they had a fearful struggle to subdue him without doing him injury. After a lengthy struggle the officers finally managed to manacle his hands and convey him to police barracks where he is being held pending an investigation as to his sanity.

THEATERS

At the Grand.

The musical comedy "Spring Chicken" is to the theater circle palate what the other article on today is to the humankind that passes on delectable things to eat—it's most pleasant. There is an element of wit in its every line that bubbles and sparkles just as the champagne does in the great restaurant scene of the second act; there are songs of the contagious kind—awfully catchy; there is a chorus that embraces some of the quaintest of grace, and there is Richard Carle and his superb company, among other things.

This production that opened at the Grand last night and will play a matinee and night engagement today will not do to be overlooked if one would like to be served a large portion of the cream of the present season.

There was a large audience of representative Atlanta theatergoers out enough to whom gathered to completely fill the house, and they were generous during every moment of the evening. But this generosity was not exchanged for naught, as across the footlights came recognition in full.

Being a musical comedy, "Spring Chicken," naturally, is not a vehicle of any great depth, and one has to dwell on its song and humor of a rare variety.

Mr. Carle made his greatest hit in Atlanta with his funniness, and the inimitable manner in which he gave vent to them. After much earnest solicitation on the part of the audience he gave a curtain speech before the second act. This was received as well as were the lines which some one else made for him.

As for his support, there is beauty, ability and attractiveness in its entirety. Each member won the applause of the audience, not one being neglected, but among those who stood out luminously were Alice Hagerman as Mrs. Girdle, Florence Averill as Harriette Papouche, Marion Mills as Barabara's wife, and Victor Morley as Gustav Babort.

"All the Girls Love Me," by Mr. Carle and a chorus with the girls representing different nationalities, was one of the strongest songs hit, along with "I Don't Know, But I Guess," by Miss Hagerman, and both of them were encored time and again. Ines Bauer demonstrated the fact that she is a most graceful dancer in "Baby and Nurple," and "In Rotterdam." "Waiting for a Certain Girl," by Mr. Morley was well received, the popular song being fittingly rendered with a quartet singing the chorus. One of the waiters who was not designated on the program in connection with the song has an excellent voice and it's rather a pity that his identity is not made known in this restaurant scene.

Jeannette Bagwood was great in her song, "In Service," in this same scene. Mr. Carle topped off his entertaining evening by "A Lesson in the Garden of Love," one of the many good ones.

In its entirety "Spring Chicken" is a great musical comedy, and one would not regret hearing it if he has an ear for music and an eye for pleasing sights.

ALEX. LYNN.

Creston Clarke.

When Creston Clarke, under the management of Jules Murry, appears at the Grand on Friday and Saturday in "The Power that Governs," the new three-act drama by Adelaide Prince, his entrance on the stage will undoubtedly cause the audience to fairly gasp.

with surprise. For Mr. Clarke, so long associated with the doublet and hose, the silken shoon and satin headgear of many of Shakespeare's heroes and the "dancing sword and slitting armor of others, will be seen for the first time in flannel shirt, ordinary and, without, carelessly trousers, and finally a pair of common leather boots reaching somewhere between the ankle and the knee.

"Brewster's Millions," a dramatization of George Bass McCutcheon's unique story of the same name, by Winchell Smith and Byron Ogilvy, will be seen here for the first time Monday and Tuesday at the Grand. It comes under the direction of Cohen and Harris, is a thoroughly delightful play and ranks with the greatest successes of the past ten years.

At the Bijou.

"The Gambler of the West" continues to be one of the merriest attractions of the Bijou season. It is a delightful, attractive, original modern melodrama, crowded with natural scenes of interest and excitement and creates just enough thrill and awe to make it the real success it has been everywhere. The theater has been crowded to its very limit at all performances with a steady demand for the remaining choice locations. The most representative people are constantly in attendance and society is joining with the knights of the gallery.

At the Orpheum.

If any better all-round vaudeville bill has ever been offered in Atlanta than that at the Orpheum this week nobody can remember it. Fred Zobel's work in equilibrium, the singing of the Olympia quartet, the musical act of Stanley and Cogswell is making

OF, FOR, BY AND ABOUT WOMEN

CONDUCTED BY ISMA DOOLY.

Mothers Interested
In Board's Action.

At a meeting of the board of education this week action will be taken in the matter of a physical examination being enforced upon the children of the public schools by physicians regularly appointed to do so, this examination to be made of pupils who in any way suggest to the teacher that they are not entirely well or incapacitated for school work.

That such action must be taken in order to prevent epidemics of diseases peculiar to children has been found necessary in all cities supporting a public school system of progressive methods. What has proven to be almost an epidemic of scarlet fever in a certain vicinity of the city in which a public school is centered is traceable to the cases of several children who had it, were not treated by a physician, and the cases not reported. One of the children, it is alleged, attended school while the others were convalescent, and the teacher of the child was kept in ignorance of the situation. The result was that one child after another was stricken with the fever.

Other cases are cited where children go to school from homes where there are patients with contagious diseases, presumably isolated; also where mothers send their children who have been ill to school before they are entirely well and before the period of infection is over.

A well known physician, a specialist in children's diseases, declared yesterday that in many instances children were sent to school with the fever of diseases upon them. The teacher becoming cognizant of the fact, insisting upon their returning home, only to find that her apprehensions were too true, and the child was taking scarlet fever. There are times, however, when the teacher cannot take such decisive steps, when she may not be able to decide upon the child's condition, and in these cases it is where a physician must be consulted.

Lays to Be Enforced.

It may be difficult to enforce the laws governing contagious diseases in the case where the disease is in such mild form a physician is not consulted, and the board of health not informed. But such cases are handled through a certain investigation which could be made when a child's absence from school is due to illness, i. e., after an absence for illness there must be some reliable information given as to just what nature and duration the illness has been. It is a well known fact that from the mildest form of a contagious disease the worst cases may be contracted. In the special disease of scarlet fever, which was so generally prevalent in a certain section of the city, but fortunately not in violent form, it is not unusual for children to be afflicted in one way or another for life.

It is a disease that frequently leaves permanent afflictions, akin to weak eyes, defective hearing, delicate throats and wrecked nerves. At the time of Helen Keller's appearance at the St. Louis exposition when the deaf, dumb and blind were assembled to know how she had learned to express herself, it was stated by an eminent specialist there at the time, that of the inmates of a certain institute for the deaf and dumb, in which he practiced, one-third became thus afflicted as a result of scarlet fever.

Aside, however, from the serious results of this disease for children there must be some rules imposed and enforced, whereby the children of the public school will be protected against those of their number who, through ignorance, poverty or carelessness, become a menace in the matter of diseases of every kind.

Rules in New York.

Superintendent Maxwell, of the public schools of New York, regarded as one of the foremost educational specialists of his time, has been instrumental in having such laws passed that every child in every school will take direct and decided medical surveillance. In this way he is not only protecting the children of the schools, but doing a great work for humanity.

Children with defective eyesight or hearing, tubercular or catarrhal troubles, skin, scalp or nervous diseases of any kind are noted, and reported. If the parents cannot or do not act upon the reports and come to the aid of the child the latter is prohibited the privileges of the school. In those cases where poverty may prevent the parents' aid, the cases are reported, investigated and acted upon by organizations and associations for public service along these lines.

Fortunately in Atlanta there can be few of such extreme cases. There is no doubt that the committee from the board of education appointed to look into the prevention of contagion in the public schools will take direct and decisive means toward affording that regular and systematic investigation of the physical condition of public school children which will do away with the fear of

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

contagion of any kind existing among them.

Hero Medal.

Photographs in this department today show the first Carnegie hero medal to come to a Georgian—that Georgian a faithful negro, John Hill, who is coachman to a well known citizen, and whose heroic act in saving, at the risk of his own life, the lives of two little children, has won for him a national commendation. The medal has been preceded by a check for $500 and a letter of complimentary nature. The incident of a real heroism substantially rewarded is one that may prove an inspirational nature in encouraging a fidelity to duty and an unselfish consideration of others—lessons that may well animate those not only of the inferior race, but those of the superior who are dependent upon those of mental positions in many cases.

Making Lingerie at Home.

There are few women who do not have a genuine love for their needle, few who do not enjoy having always at hand some bit of work that can be picked up at odd moments and laid aside indefinitely as occasion demands. As a substitute for embroidered dollies and sofa pillows many women have taken up the manufacture of their own lingerie. It is pretty work and permits the exercise of considerable artistic skill as well as beautiful needlework. Given a few pieces of fine muslin, a bit of lace, a piece of entre-deux and a few skeins of French working cotton, and a thousand possibilities for daintiness and ingenuity are opened at once to the clever woman. She may not only supply her own wardrobe, but can fashion the most acceptable gifts for her friends. Viewed for a commercial standpoint hand-made lingerie has proved a most profitable employment for many women who make a business of supplying trousseaux and layettes.—Exchange.

Southern Cooking.

BROILED RABBIT OR SQUIRREL.
After cleaning the animal wipe it dry, split it down the back lengthwise, pound the pieces flat and wrap them in squares of buttered paper, place them on a buttered grid-iron and broil them over a clear fire, turning them often. When sufficiently cooked remove the pieces of rabbit from their coverings, drain whatever juice there is in the latter into a hot dish; dip the pieces of rabbit in melted butter and return them to the grid-iron for a moment that they may acquire the broiled flavor which only direct contact with the fire gives.

BRUNSWICK STEW.
Cut the rabbit in small pieces, as for a fricassee, put them in a saucepan with a quarter of a pound of bacon, or better, a ham bone, and a small onion sliced. Cover with boiling water and simmer for three-quarters of an hour; then add one cupful of lima beans which have been soaked in cold water overnight; one cupful of canned corn; one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a quarter teaspoonful of black pepper. Cover closely and simmer until the beans are tender. Remove the bacon (or the ham bone) before serving.

The Alabama Brenau College.
Is just closing the most successful term in the history of the school. Nearly two hundred students from ten states. The second term will begin January 22. There will be four or five vacancies. If you have a daughter to educate you cannot send her to a better school or a more healthful locality. Very reasonable rates.

For information address The Alabama Brenau, Eufaula, Ala.

Big Sea Island Cotton Receipts.
Valdosta, Ga., January 8.—(Special).—The receipts of sea island cotton in this city so far have been 5,175 bales, against 5,887 for last season. The receipts for last season were the largest in the history of the city, although the crop in this section was the smallest in over eight years. It looks now as if this season's receipts will be much greater than last year. Good grades of sea islands are bringing 28 cents per pound, but a great portion of the staple is of a very inferior quality. Valdosta has for many years been the largest interior sea island cotton market in the entire cotton belt.

Valdosta Firm Fails.
Valdosta, Ga., January 8.—(Special).—G. M. Boyd, one of the partners in the firm known as the Boyd-Fry Store and China Company, of this city, has filed a petition with the United States court, asking that the firm be declared bankrupt and that the business of the concern be taken in charge by the court. Judge Mitchell appointed A. W. Varnedoe as receiver, and he is in charge of the business under the appointment of the state court.

Three Italians Shot.
Pittsburg, Pa., January 8.—During a quarrel between five Italians at Stone township last night, three of the foreigners were probably fatally shot. The two uninjured men are under arrest. The cause of the fight is unknown.

House Linens

"When are you going to have your Linen Sale?"

I'm waiting for it," is the question, at once attractive and flattering, which we've been asked a dozen times the past week. Why it should be flattering is left to the easy imagination of the gentle reader. Store tradition rather fixes the opening days of January as the time for such a sale. If we are enough behind our usual schedule for you to notice it, we feel duly pleased of course. And when you inquire about it we grow radiantly enthusiastic. Fact is, we've been arranging while you've been anticipating. While you've been scanning your buying, we've been ticketing and labeling the stuff at irresistible prices. In other words we want to justify your confidence in us by giving you a sale worth while. Consequently it is a positive pleasure to announce that, for the next two weeks, the C.-J.-DuB. sale of Linens will be going on.

Shrewd housewives, seasoned selectors of this class of merchandise, women who know qualities, will recognize at a glance the possibilities of this sale. And the inexperienced buyer will find that one of the best assets possessed by this house is its reliable methods. You can depend on what we tell you. Ask your friends.

Now here's an outline list for your guidance. Each item is a notable value. The reductions are noted for your full information. Scan them carefully:

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company

A young lady had an elegant gown made by one of Atlanta's foremost modistes. It was of substantial goods. In course of time it, like everything else, had served its purpose and was thrown aside. She was about to give it away when some one stopped in and told her to advertise it for sale in the columns of The Atlanta Constitution. She did so. It was sold, the person buying it had the gown dyed, made over and is as if new. She sold it for a good price and the person buying it was greatly delighted. Every woman in Atlanta can do something similar. The "For Sale" columns of The Constitution are far-reaching and most often produce immediate results.

NOTABLE AUTOMOBILE RACE.

Machines Will Race from New York to Paris via Berlin Strait.

New York, January 8.—The executive committee of the American Automobile Association passed a resolution pledging the association's help for the proposed motor race from New York to Paris by way of Alaska, Bering Strait and Siberia, which is to be run under the auspices of Le Matin, of Paris, and The Times, of New York. The committee says that when the proper time arrives it will issue a request to all affiliated organizations asking for all help possible for the racers. Great preparations are being made for the race, and those who have been over the route believe that it is possible for the cars to travel it. It is expected that a number of foreign and American entries will be made. Le Matin organized the race last year from Peking to Paris, which was a huge success.

Big Leagues Open April 14.

Immediately after the close of the regular season, the world's championship games are to start, probably on October 9. In the National League, Chicago will open at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Boston at Brooklyn and New York at Philadelphia. The opening of the American League was not ascertained. The official schedules of both leagues will be announced some time next month.

B. E. MILLER AND H. C. C. AULD SWOKE OUT A WARRANT yesterday afternoon before Justice Kingsbery charging Charles M. May, a pawnbroker at 88 Decatur street, with embezzlement in that he had fraudulently converted to his own use the goods of Auld. May was arrested and released on his own recognizance, the case being set for hearing before Justice Kingsbery next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Auld brought a warrant against May, who was charged with the conversion of the goods of Auld, which he claimed to have mailed immediately upon making the purchase, but the recorder held that the report did not comply with the provisions of the law which require such purchasers to make report to the sergeant of detectives.

THE AWARD GAIT AND INCONGRUITY was assured by a recent walking along Decatur street yesterday morning caused Captain J. T. Shepard to make a closer investigation. He was satisfied that he beheld a negro woman masquerading in man's attire and he placed the object of his suspicion under arrest. The woman, who carried her revolver in a leather bag, was found in the pocket of the woman's coat, which was so patched with cloth of different colors that it resembled the garment which Joseph Reilly, the woman, who still wore her masculine garb, stated that her name was Dolly Houston, and that she had walked to Atlanta for the purpose of buying a bottle of liquor. The woman was committed to jail in default of $100 bail. Her sanity will be inquired into.

Kingsbery yesterday afternoon issued an attachment against the Standard Trust Company, of Birmingham, Ala., a building and loan corporation. Patterson charges that he bought a certificate of deposit for $2,000 and paid monthly installments until he had paid in the total sum of $54, that he had purchased the certificate under the promise that the company would build him a house and that he could obtain no satisfactory statement.

THE CASE OF FOSTER & DAVIES against the Atlanta Pressmen's Union No. 8, in which the plaintiff desires an injunction preventing the union from picketing the streets around its shops in an endeavor to keep labor from being employed and thus interfering with the business, was heard by Judge Ellis yesterday. He reserved his decision until he can give the matter further consideration.

Union Names Officers.

Rome, Ga., January 8.—(Special.)—At the regular meeting of Rome Typographical Union No. 371, held Tuesday afternoon, the annual election of officers took place. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. W. Duncan, president; R. L. McConnell, vice president; F. P. Rogers, secretary; treasurer; C. O. Burns, corresponding secretary, and A. T. Sorrell, sergeant at arms.

The man who tampers with writing on checks printed with a security tint injures this tint to some extent. If it is a flat color, as is the case with most safety papers, he can restore it with water-color.

But if it consists of delicate and exact forms countless repeated, the successful replacing of which, once disturbed, is a practical impossibility, he probably won't tamper.

A good reason for putting our pantograph tints on checks and other instruments requiring security.

GET DRUGS

Mrs. A. T. Brand Confesses Larceny of Two Rings.

WANTED MONEY FOR DRUGS

Wife of Well Known Real Estate Dealer and Mother of Three Children is Charged With Taking Two Rings From a Jewelry Store.

Mrs. A. T. Brand, aged 32 years, the wife of a real estate dealer, and the mother of three small children, residing at College Park, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Wood and Starnes on Decatur street, where she had come to pawn a diamond ring, which she confessed she stole at the jewelry establishment of Abraham Holzman, 94 Whitehall street. She was carried to police barracks, and committed to the care of the matron, Mrs. Hainfield, and her case will be investigated this afternoon by Recorder Broyles.

Mrs. Brand is accused of having purloined two valuable diamond rings, one valued at $50 and the other at $80, from Holzman's jewelry store. In effecting the theft, Mrs. Brand employed an artifice, which, at the first attempt, was successful, but upon repeating it yesterday was detected, and led to her being followed and arrested by the detectives while in the act of pawning the $80 ring.

She procured a ring with a glass setting, constituting a fairly good imitation of a diamond, unless closely inspected. Keeping this ring with the cheap setting in her hand, Mrs. Brand asked to be shown diamond rings in the jewelry store. The tray was set before her on the show case, and, after spending some time in examining the rings, she managed to deftly substitute the cheap ring for the valuable one, leaving the store in safety. Yesterday, it is said, she again attempted this ruse, which she had successfully practiced just before Christmas, but the fraud was detected in time to lead to her arrest. Both of the stolen rings were recovered.

Tells Cause of Her Action.

Nothing could more fully illustrate the evils of the drug habit and the destruction of the moral fabric which its use accomplishes, than does the case of this unfortunate woman. At the police barracks, she said between bitter sobs:

"My husband is a real estate dealer, and for the past three months has been ill. I have three small children, and my husband had saved but little ready money when his illness came upon him, therefore, he could give me but little money. Three years ago I was an inmate of a hospital, and morphine was regularly administered to me, because of my nervous habit, and although I have struggled against it with all my power, suffering torments unknown to any but those deprived of this drug after having become a user of it, I have been unable to overcome the habit, and I was forced to have money with which to purchase the only thing which would quiet my nerves and permit me to perform my duties and sleep."

"I can't say why I stole the two rings, except that I had to have money to buy morphine with. I pawned the first ring I took just before Christmas for $2, and the second for $5. I attempted to carry out the same project this afternoon. I was arrested on Decatur street, whether I had come for the purpose of raising money on the ring, or to help my poor husband and little children this night, I do not know where I am, and when they learn what has happened, it will bring a crushing blow upon our little home."
